Go-To-Church--Sunday, Nov. 21

Suppose you took A Cup of Spice to a Thimble of Flour that would spoil the Cake wouldn't it?

Suppose your children ate A Pound of Candy to an Ounce of Bread, what would they amount to if fed that way?

Suppose YOU had Lots of Hours Regularly for Fun, But Seldom One for Religion?

Now Spice, Candy, and Play are all good things that God is glad for us both grown-ups and Children to have but let's get the proportions right, especially in the most important—the last. To begin with, let's go to church, you and I.

You might ask "WHAT IS SUNDAY FOR?"

Well a number of things. A good deal depends on who is answering that question. Auto rides, visiting, sleeping, reading, taking a walk, whatever will rest one. Correct you may be—always providing of course that it does not interfere with the other and main purpose of the day, i. e. worship. Some way these hurried, busy, strenuous times, it is easy to persuade ourselves that we are keeping the day Holy if we only rest, forgetting that God wants every one to grow spiritually, and Sunday is the time to do it. If you rest only, the next step is an unconscious drop from simple happy rest to the pursuit of pleasure, even though it wears still more. How long since you've read Isaiah 58:13-14? Look it up. Yes, Sunday was meant for rest and worship; and included in worship is going to church. Honest now, don't you think so?

Let us make it as big a success this year as we did last year. The movement was sporadic at first, but was made national by the United Society of Christian Endeavor and was a tremendous success. Governors of States, men of national fame, the Vice-President of the United States and people of all creeds and faiths united in "boosting" it. Not to boost any one church or denomination, but every one go to the church of their choice, whatever it is. We are glad the churches are with us and working for the very best in character development, neighborhood helpfulness, and the soul's preparation for the life beyond. So let's go, one and all, go in such numbers that the preachers will have to speak from the front steps if the two buildings won't hold us!

And don't think for a minute that your unnecessary absence doesn't matter. It DOES matter Greatly. There is a bit of the sheep nature in our make up. We like to follow a leader. If some body stays away from church on the 21st, some one else will stay away also; and so the "Stay-a-ways" multiply, and if you go some one else is quite likely to go too, especially when you reach the point of having grace and gumption enough to invite and welcome them—grace enough to really "shovel coal" for the sake of getting up "spiritual steam."

As soon as the award was made there was a mad rush to buy these young pigs but Mr. Stradling had the inside deal having spoken for them earlier in the season. The boys are making quite a reputation as hog raisers as well as dairymen.

Byrona Bennett Deceased

The death of Miss Byrona Bennett of San Jose Monday afternoon was a decided shock to her many friends about Campbell and San Jose where she had lived a number of years.

While in the act of lighting the gas stove, she fainted falling across the stove in such a way as to breathe the gas which had been partly turned on.

Miss Bennett made a number of friends during her stay in Campbell where she attended High School graduating in the 1911 class. She later finished normal and taught one year at Los Gatos, her health failing her. When her health permitted she entered Stanford where she was a student at the time of her death.

Miss Bennett was a charming and lovable young woman who had many friends in school and out. Her mother is a teacher at the Longfellow school and formerly taught at the Washington school for many years. Besides her widowed mother, Miss Bennett is survived by two aunts, Mrs. Mangrum, wife of the senior member of the firm of Mangrum & Otter, of San Francisco, and Mrs. E. K. Clendenning of Campbell. She had been in the best of spirits and her sudden death comes as a sad blow to her mother, by whom she was adored as her only child, and by the many friends of the family.

The funeral services were held from the home of her mother in San Jose Wednesday afternoon.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIAR SAYINGS

Phrases That Have Become Household Words Have Been Traced to Their Place of Birth.

"Kicking the bucket" is an irreverent way of expressing a person's death. The expression originated at the time when a man named Balsoever tried to commit suicide by hanging himself from a beam. He stood on a high bucket which he kicked away from him when he had adjusted the rope. A neighbor rescued him and in his disappointment he said: "What's the matter? I thought I kicked the bucket."

The origin of "O. K." is ascribed to President Andrew Jackson, who was noted for his bad spelling. He indorsed his papers "O. K." thinking these were the proper initials for "all correct."

In "that's the ticket," ticket is corrupted from the French word etiquette, meaning that which is in good form or right.

"He's a brick" is a complimentary expression, but few know why. When Lycurgus was king of Sparta, over two thousand years ago, an eastern ambassador visited him and was astonished to find no walls around the city. When he questioned Lycurgus about this, the latter took him out to a plain where the Spartan army stood in order of battle. "There," said Lycurgus, "are the walls of Sparta, and every man a brick."

The ceiling of the old Drury Lane theater of London was painted to represent Olympus, with gods sitting among the clouds. The upper gallery came so close to the roof that the people who sat there were spoken of as sitting among the gods. Later the occupants themselves were called the "gallery gods."

APPEAL THAT GOT RESULTS

Humorously Written "Dun" Had the Effect of Bringing Check to Settle Long-Standing Debt.

A well-known business man in Lawrence, Mass., once had a customer who contracted a debt that ran along unpaid for a year or more, and even several letters failed to bring about a settlement.

One day, while glancing over the religious notices in a local paper, the business man saw something that gave him a new idea. He went to his desk and wrote the following note to the debtor:

"My Dear Sir: I see in the local press that you are to deliver an address on Friday evening before the Y. M. C. A. on 'The Sinner's Balanced Account.' I inclose yours, as yet unbalanced, and trust that I may have the pleasure of attending your lecture."

A check came by the next mail.—Youth's Companion.

Redwood Thousands of Centuries Old.

While one of the professors of the University of California was studying rock formations about twenty miles from San Francisco he discovered a quantity of California redwood splinters which had undergone no change in texture. They were neither petrified nor decayed.

The splinters could be shaved and cut with a knife and retained their distinctive markings of redwood.

The strata in which these were found embedded in the sandy base of the rock showed they had at one time been sunk under the sea and at a later date had been raised and tilted over, so that the position of the trees was horizontal instead of vertical.

It is estimated the age of these trees is in the millions of years. The discovery was made at Mussel Rock, Cal.

To Each His Place.

Men have died of homesickness for the narrow fields and elm-shaded hollows in the hills of old New England in the same spirit that sends others tolling painfully back to the brown sand dunes about San Francisco bay. Some have lost their hearts to the deep pine woods of the North and others to the stately moss-hung live oaks that line the shell road to Mobile. Some would come to the city of their souls through the low, warm mists that overhang Chesapeake bay, and others prefer to see the lights of home shining clear in a rise of the great plains 30 miles away as the crow flies. The truest thing Kipling ever said is that "God gave all men all earth to love, but, since their hearts are small, ordained for each one place should prove beloved over all." That place is home, and they have lived to find it.—Collier's Weekly.

Life on Falkland Islands.

Other attractions exist in the Falkland Islands, two great draws which annually met with. The islands are warm, and fires are not needed with difficulty. The women from England are free to marry and live as they please. They have no break in the land and has no break in the sea left.

ALPS IN AMERICA

TWO MEDICINE LAKE

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, like other "show" parts of America, benefited by the war during the summer of 1915 and was visited by many thousands of persons who before had scarcely heard of it. It has been a national park since 1910, but, in a period of utter public indifference to the glories of American scenery, it has passed almost unnoticed. Now that America has suddenly become aware that she possesses the most superb accessible scenery in the world, Glacier is destined to rapid recognition as the one real Switzerland of America. It is in northwestern Montana, close to the Canadian border line.

The park derives its name from its 60 glaciers; but there are more than 90, all told, if one classes as glaciers many interesting snow patches of only a few acres each, which, nevertheless, exhibit all the characteristics of true glaciers. Its scenery is strikingly Alpine, yet it possesses individuality to a high degree. In ruggedness and sheer grandeur it probably surpasses the Alps, while geologically it is markedly different.

It strongly differentiates also from other mountain scenery in America. Ice-clad Rainier, mysterious Crater lake, spouting Yellowstone, exquisite Yosemite, beautiful Sequoia—to each of these and to all other of our national parks Glacier offers a highly individual contrast.

Region of Remarkable Beauty. To define Glacier National park, picture to yourself two approaching chains of vast tumbled mountains which pass the Continental divide back and forth between them in worm-like patterns, and the sea or lake bottom, under the urge of terrific forces hidden in the interior of the earth, lifted, emerged, and became land. Untold ages passed, and the land hardened into rocks. And all the time the forces kept pressing together and upward the rocky crust of the earth. For untold ages this crust held safe.

Result of Titanic Upheaval. At last the pressure won. The rocks first yielded upward in long irregular wavelike folds. Gradually these folds grew in size. When the rocks could stand the strain no longer, great cracks appeared and one broken edge, the western, was thrust upward and over the other. The edge that was thrust over the other was thousands of feet thick. Its crumbling formed the mountains and the precipices.

When it settled the western edge of this break overlapped the eastern edge ten or fifteen miles. This thrusting of one edge of the burst and split continent over the other edge is called faulting by geologists and this particular fault is called the Lewis overthrust.

Thus was formed, in the dim days before man, for the pleasure of the American people of today, the Glacier National park.

Today the visitor finds this the most wonderful combination of mountain tops in America, bounded by vertical walls sometimes 4,000 feet in height diversified by many glistening glaciers like twistings, which bear living glaciers in every hollow of their loftiest convolutions, and which break precipitately thousands of feet to lower mountain masses, which, in their turn, bear innumerable lakes of unbelievable calm, offspring of the glaciers above; these lakes, in their turn, giving birth to roaring rivers of icy water, leaping turbulently from level to level, carving innumerable sculptured gorges of grandeur and indescribable beauty.

These parallel mountain masses form a central backbone for the National park. Their western sides slope from the summit less precipitately. Their eastern sides break abruptly. It is on the east that their scenic quality becomes titanic.

To really comprehend the personality of Glacier one must glance back for a moment into the geological past and by beautiful timbered slopes leading down by graceful curves to the bottom of deep valleys. Scores of lakes are unsurpassed in sheer beauty by any even of Italy and Switzerland. There are more than 250 lakes in all.

Nor is this scenic wonderland merely a sample of the neighborhood. North of the park the Canadian mountains rapidly lose their scenic interest. South and west there is little of greater interest than the mountains commonly crossed in a transcontinental journey. To the east lie the plains. This region appears not to have been visited by white men before 1853, when A. W. Tinkham, a government engineer exploring a route for a Pacific railroad, ascended Nyack creek by mistake and retraced his steps, when he discovered the impracticability for railroad purposes of the country he had penetrated.

HOW TO MAKE DRIED APPLES

Simple Method Which Will Insure Success If Directions Are Closely Followed.

Peel, core and slice the apples. Place them on platters, wooden trays, or any other convenient receptacle and place them in the sunshine. Take them in at night and during rains; it is impossible to secure good dried fruit unless they are protected from moisture. Protect them from flies and other insects with netting, and place them out of the dust as far as possible. Continue the drying until the fruit has lost more than half its weight; if necessary, it may be placed in the oven for two or three hours at the end. Tie the dried fruit in paper sacks, using a double thickness if thin skin sacks are used, and suspend them from the ceiling of the dryest room available.

When ready to use the dried fruit, wash it well, soak it for six hours or longer, and throw away the liquid drained off. Then cook the fruit for several hours at a temperature slightly below the boiling point.—Mothers' Magazine.

USE PAPER JARS FOR JELLY

Have Advantage of Being More Easily Packed Without Danger of Breaking.

The paper family, already so helpful to the housewife, has a new member included in its circle—the paper jelly glass. It is of paraffin paper, like the drinking cup, and comes in several sizes, from two ounces to 14 ounces. The eight-ounce size costs about 15 cents a dozen. The advantage of the paper cup is that it can be packed more easily without danger of breaking and with less weight than the heavy glass jars. Again, there are many times when we want to give a glass of jelly to a friend and when we do not like to ask for the return of the glass. Yet the cost of many glasses is quite an item as contrasted with the cost of the paper tumbler. Also we often want to take a glass of jelly to a picnic and then we do not want the weight and bother of a heavy container. Here is where the paper cup has a distinct and permanent place with the housewife.

Chocolate Fig Cream.

Scald two cupfuls of rich milk, add two squares of chocolate that have been melted over hot water, two tablespoonsful of granulated sugar and a tiny pinch of ground cinnamon. Cook until well thickened and remove from the fire, and when cold fold in the stiffly beaten white of one egg and half a pint of cream that has been beaten solid with two tablespoonsful of powdered sugar. Flavor with vanilla and turn into a two-quart freezer. Turn the crank until a slight resistance is felt, then add one large cupful of finely-chopped figs. Continue freezing until smooth and serve in tall crystal glasses, each portion topped with a tablespoonful of sweetened whipped cream.

Corn Dumplings.

Mix the contents of one pint can of fresh, grated corn with one-half pint of milk, six tablespoonsful butter, two eggs, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-half pint flour or enough to make a dough that is easily handled, one teaspoonful of baking powder. If corn is juicy, drain, tear off some pieces of the dough the size of a butternut and roll between the palms of hands, drop into smoking hot fat and cook until nicely browned. Serve with tomato or brown sauce.

Rock Cakes.

Rub three cupfuls, of sifted flour with three ounces of butter. Add a quarter of a cupful of granulated sugar, three ounces of currants, an ounce of candied peel, cut in shreds, two teaspoonsful of baking powder, a beaten egg, some grated nutmeg and milk, enough to make a stiff dough. Put on a greased tin in rough little piles, 12 or 15 of them. Bake for 25 minutes.

Creamed Codfish.

Soak the fish three hours; boil in fresh water until tender; pick out all the bones; take one pint of milk and bring to the boiling point; thicken with a tablespoonful of cornstarch, dissolved in a little water, add a spoonful of butter, then stir in the fish, a good, large cupful or a little more; add two well-beaten eggs, let them cook and serve very hot.

Date Pudding.

One cupful sour cream, one teaspoonful soda, one cupful sirup, one small spoonful butter, one pound dates, one teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful nutmeg, salt, enough whole wheat flour to form batter. Stone the dates and cut into halves. Mix ingredients with flour enough to make stiff batter and pour into deep greased mold and steam two and a half hours. Serve cold with cream and sugar.—Mother's Magazine.

Thousand Isle Salad Dressing.

One-half cupful olive oil, juice of half an orange, one-fourth teaspoonful each salt and mustard, juice of one lemon, one teaspoonful grated onion, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, one teaspoonful finely chopped parsley. Put all ingredients in a mason jar and shake well.

An Easy Way to Dust.

For removing dust from furniture a paint brush is much more satisfactory than a dust rag. No crevice is too small or deep for it to reach.

Outfitting the Youth for Winter

It is not difficult to dress the young lad correctly, for in his case, as in that of men, a few good styles are given the stamp of approval early in the season and dutifully followed until its close. Men are less independent in dress than women, and the boy also wants to be dressed like his mates. His desires having been fulfilled in this regard he is unconscious of his clothes once they are acquired.

A sensible outfit for the schoolboy from eight to sixteen is shown in the picture above. It consists of knickerbockers in gray or brown mixture and a Norfolk coat. These are worn with a soft percale blouse with soft turnover collar and cuffs and an inconspicuous four-in-hand tie.

The short topcoat is made of a heavy woolen material showing an indistinct plaid. It is double-breasted and finished with large flap pockets, very substantial and firmly sewed down. A woolen cap, strong ribbed stockings and calfskin laced shoes carry out the appropriate details of the outfit. For school, woolen gloves or those of dog-skin are in keeping with the coat and cap.

For formal dress a lad from ten to seventeen wears a black Tuxedo of soft finished worsted. The lapels of the jacket are faced with grosgrain silk, and the straight trousers are knee length. Buttons are small and cloth covered. With this suit a soft silk blouse and Eton collar are worn and a black four-in-hand tie. The vest is of white pique, cut high. For the most formal of occasions, when full dress is required, a vest of white corded silk or of a creped silk may be used. In all cases the vest fastens with small pearl buttons. Fine ribbed stockings and patent leather pumps complete the youth's full dress. The topcoat is of dark oxford or dark blue cut knee length. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Save the Edges.

One woman's unfortunate experience will prove of help to thousands of her sisters, for she passes along the following information: To prevent the edges of an afghan from wearing, and in time raveling, sew inch-wide ribbon all around the corner. Let the color of the ribbon match the most prominent color in the afghan. When the ribbon becomes soiled it can be very easily replaced.

Featuring Novel Ideas in Trimming

It is true that a hat of almost any shape may be found among the newly arrived fall millinery and worn with entire confidence as to its good style. For hats are of all sizes and shapes, and the mode demands only that each one be good to look at, not that it shall be similar to others.

There are a few novelties in shapes that have made themselves prominent, like the Puritan, and adaptations from it—the Puritan sailor, for instance. There are high-crowned sailors, of any desired width of brim, and many wide-brimmed hats. But one may choose a small, close-fitting turban, a tricorn or a quadrangular shape, or depend upon irregular lines and eccentricities of brim for effect.

Three attractive and conservative hats are pictured in the group above. They demonstrate the diversity in size and shape that one may choose from. The picturesque hat at the top is one of many wide-brimmed hats. It has a flexible brim, very becoming to youthful wearers, and depends for novelty on its trimming of heavy woolen yarns. A spray of leaves made of yarn is embroidered on the side crown and brim, and the brim-edge is bound with a strip of woven angora.

An exquisite hat at the left of the group is made of silk laid over a familiar sailor shape. It is a brocade with flower motifs in silver and gold threads. As in the big velvet hat, a concession to the demand of the season for simplicity in trimming is evidenced in this band of black velvet ribbon about the crown. It is finished with two loops and two hanging ends at the back, with the velvet cleverly shirred into ball ornaments to weight the ends. This is a shape that is worn by maid or matron, with the management of the trimming adapting it to the age of the wearer.

The same thing is true of the turban at the right. It has a soft crown of velvet and a coronet covered with a band of novel embroidery, made of silk and little sequins. For trimming, a tall ear of velvet springs from a small circle of ostrich fibers, and is mounted on the crown at the right side toward the back of the shape. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

CERTAIN REWARD OF VANITY

Sturdy Farmer of Jeffersonian Simplicity Had No Difficulty in Recognizing Son's Picture.

He was one of those stubborn young men who carry out their own ideas regardless of consequences, and when he left the farm to engage in the livery business in a nearby town, contrary to the wishes of his father, the first thing he did was to have a many-colored sign painted, representing himself holding a mule by the bridle.

One day his father, a sturdy old farmer of the Jeffersonian simplicity type, came to town, and the son in showing him about the stable, proudly pointed to the sign:

"By the way, isn't that a good likeness of me, dad?" he queried.

"Ya-as," replied the old man, adjusting his spectacles. "Ya-as, it's a gosh hang'd good picture uv yew, I reckon; but who be that feller what's holdin' yew by the bridle?"—Indianapolis Star.

Retribution.

Judge—Are you personally acquainted with the plaintiff in this case?

Witness—I am, your honor.

Judge—What can you say as to his reputation for veracity?

Witness—Well, your honor, he was once a life insurance agent, and—

Judge—That will do. Case dismissed.

His Appreciation.

"I done kitched a cullud man tuder night right smack in de act o' running off wid muh wife!" stated Brother Tolly Tinkum.

"Well, uh-good Lawd, sah! What did yo' do?"

They lived in adjoining houses, and one of those inevitable neighborly spats was on.

A Feminine Marvel.

She—Indeed! What have you discovered about her that is so remarkable?

He—Why, when she hasn't anything to say she doesn't talk.

Spatts—Oh, you're like every other woman. You never make mistakes.

WHY ERRORS IN NEWSPAPERS.

Reportorial and Mechanical Work Under Stress.

It is the custom of many to censure the newspapers severely for mistakes that they make. This would not be so common if the critics would consider the vast quantities of matter they print, and the difficulties under which much of their information is obtained.

"Mistakes are made it is true," says the New York Times, one of the most careful of newspapers. "They are inevitable. But with the stress and strain imposed upon the reportorial, editorial and mechanical forces of a newspaper, the never-ending battle against time, the struggle to get at the truth when frequently every channel seems to be closed and every effort made to suppress facts, and with the various processes that must be employed before the fragmentary information gathered by the reporters is transformed into the published article, the wonder is not that errors are made, but that they are not far more common and consequential in their nature. So much emphasis has been laid on accuracy that the degree of proficiency, under the circumstances that prevail and which cannot be altered, is nothing short of marvelous. It is one of the wonders of a wonderful age."

KITES AID WIRELESS

Successful Experiments Made by Signal Corps.

Marked Increase in Efficiency Obtained by the Use of the Flyers—Further Tests to Be Made Along Same Line.

A series of remarkably successful and interesting experiments were conducted by the United States signal corps at the recent maneuvering in Massachusetts in maintaining a wireless aerial by means of box kites and thereby increasing the efficiency of an ordinary field wireless outfit from six to sixteen times. The tests were conducted by Samuel F. Perkins, a maker and flyer of man-lifting kites.

Favorable strong and steady winds enabled Mr. Perkins to send up a string of kites to an altitude of 1,600 feet. Messages transmitted from the set of field wireless attached to this kite-supported aerial were received 150 miles away with distinctness, although the ordinary range of the set was only 25 miles. One thing that aided materially in obtaining this result was the fact that the kites flew so steadily that the aerial was always maintained at a constant altitude.

Quite as remarkable as the sending power of the wireless was its receiving quality. Messages were received with distinctness from the battleship Georgia while off Newport and from the government station at Arlington, Va., and Bermuda.

These experiments were but the first of a long series that will be conducted, and it is the belief of those who are interested in the matter that they will lead to a system by which the range of the ordinary field wireless will be materially increased. United States government and Marconi officials are following the experiments closely.—Scientific American.

Wanted—A Southerner.

He was a good-looking young negro whose clothes gave no indication that he was out of a job.

He entered the Enquirer office at the moment the staff was taking the relaxation which follows the consignment of the last edition to the press.

Said the young negro: "Kin yo' gemmen tell me whether tha's a suth'en gemman anywah 'round heah?" "What's the matter with a northern gemman?" inquired the staff kiddier. "Boss," answered the young negro. "Ah jus' got in fum Georgy. A'm hungry. 'F Ah kin fin' a gemman fum down Souf he'll help me out."

Maybe that's a new one. Possibly it's a late and neat way to make a raise. But if the young negro was on the level, and he looked it, the South received its handsomest compliment in these parts in many a day.—Buffalo Enquirer.

Another "Peach" of a Peach Story. Brown, Bartholomew and Johnson counties all combined make this story Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Davis live on a farm in the corner made by the three county lines. They have a peach tree on their place that has been acting in an unusual manner, and Mrs. Davis, who visited Columbus, Ind., recently brought along some proof. She had one twig from the tree on which there were 16 peaches, the combined weight of which was seven pounds. There was not another peach on the tree, but the one twig did nobly. Just a little distance from this tree there is another that is sending forth its second crop of peaches, and nearly all of the limbs now are full, the peaches being about the size of guinea eggs. On the Davis farm there also is a second crop of blackberries growing.—Indianapolis News.

Practicing Economy.

When the conversation turned to the subject of economy this little incident was related by Congressman Charles H. Burke of South Dakota: Jenkins was sitting in front of the firehouse in a suburban town when a fellow-commuter came along and unreeling a dissertation on the high cost of living.

"Speaking of the high cost of living," responded Jenkins, "everything is economy down our way now. My wife is practicing it to beat the band."

"You don't mean it!" exclaimed the other. "In what way is she economizing?" "She is economizing on my shirts," was the rejoinder of Jenkins. "She is buying me three for a dollar, so that she can get a $15 hat."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Buys Duffy's With Gold Dust

Which reminds us of California's first currency, but read what this Alaska pioneer, himself, says about Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey giving him health and power to face some of the most remote mining camps of the continent for more than 20 years:

"Years ago when I was under engagement as Mining and Metallurgical Engineer in Old Mexico—that was in '92 and '93—I was plumb broke down in health after some hard and strenuous work. I had Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey sent down to me especially—way up in the Sierra Madres Mountains, 200 miles northwest of the City of Durango—it put me on my feet, so as to face the hardships of this country."

"I am now 67 years old and it is quite a difference, although I think I am as young as ever and can undertake all kinds of hardships. I am considered one of the very oldest of Alaska and Yukon pioneers, as I started the first legitimate mining in Alaska in '77 before I went to Mexico—I built the first quartz mill in Alaska and mined the first gold ore out of rock; but I do break down and need a stimulant like your Duffy's Malt."

"We can't get anything here or within hundreds of miles around, but if you can ship a couple of bottles of your Elixir I would like to have you let me know. We have no currency here—our only exchange is gold dust—the commercial value of which is $17.00 per ounce. I'll ask you to accept such as currency and do enclose to you 1/4 ounce, so send me what you can of Duffy's for it."—George E. Pilz, Jack Wade Creek P. O., Alaska.

The Wrong Foot.

An English soldier, a member of the Second South Staffordshire Regiment, says that one bitterly cold night in the early spring he and his mates came out of the trenches. They were billeted in a barn, where they were packed in very close.

"Though numb with cold, we were soon asleep," said the soldier in telling the incident. "I was awakened in the night by one of our chaps trying to put his boots on. After he had been trying for a minute or two I heard the fellow next him say: 'What the — are you doing?' 'Putting my boots on,' was the reply. 'Well, that's my foot, you fool!'"

Methodist Church Notes

The ladies of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society met with Mrs. L. T. Cook, a former member, in San Jose, Tuesday.

The young ladies of the Epworth League have undertaken to prepare new window curtains purchased by the League to be placed in the room of the Deaconess Home in San Francisco which was furnished by this League several years ago.

The Santa Clara Valley chapters of the Epworth League will hold a rally at Palo Alto Tuesday. Our young people are planning to attend in force, going up in autos.

The Rev. W. P. Stanley, vice-president of the College of the Pacific, will speak at the Sunday morning service; and Brother Frank J. McLain, assistant pastor of First church, San Jose, will conduct the evening service.

Mr. Lloyd is attending the meeting of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension in Oakland for a few days. This is the first meeting of this board so far west, and many of the ministers of this section are enjoying the privilege of the sessions.

Next Wednesday evening has been fixed for our churches as "Go To Prayer Meeting Night." It suits the local situation well for we have fixed upon the following Sunday, Nov. 21st, as "Go to Church Sunday" in Campbell. Come to church next Wednesday evening at seven o'clock. The subject will be "The Creeds of Protestantism."

The Sunday-school board will meet Wednesday evening after prayer meeting.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

The theme for Sunday morning is "The Function and Force of Discipleship." Talk to the boys and girls on "Don't be in a hurry."

Sunday-school and Endeavor as usual. Roy G. Archibald is C. E. leader.

A good service awaits us Sunday evening, when Sergeant Paul C. Goss of the U. S. Marines will speak on "Floating Work" or "Christian Work among the Sailors and Marines in the U. S. Navy." This talk will be illustrated with a number of splendid Stereopticon Slides. The Sergeant's four years in the Marines enable him to speak from intimate first hand knowledge, and his talk is sure to be instructive and inspiring.

Come and hear what the young people of California are doing for our Sailor boys. One week from Sunday is Campbell's "Go-To-Church-Day." Let us all join to make it a great success. Come out to mid-week service next week—17th and make this service a splendid preparation for the Sunday following.

"Come Thru with us and we will do Thee Good." A cordial invitation to one and all.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

THIS MEANS YOU—The man, woman or child who is reading this.

We are paying our good money to the printer for this invitation because our consciences are pricking us that we haven't said the same thing to you more frequently on the street and in your home. We want you to come with us to church.

The Great Master went to church regularly—See Luke 4:16. Are we better than He that we stay away? Come on All Sundays Especially Nov. 21. The Churches of Campbell.

Open Air Barber's In Spain.

Fingers that smell of garlic, soap that gives no lather, a razor that may have been used for cutting raw ham and a flourish that reminds one of an executioner rather than of a barber—such are the qualifications of the itinerant Spanish hairdresser. The victim—we use the term advisedly—must be a patient, long suffering man, neither the slave of time nor of any petty feelings such as delicacy and sensitiveness, as otherwise he will fare badly at the hands of his torturer, for the Spanish open air barber is a calm man, who takes everything for granted and never for a moment doubts that you are satisfied with his attentions and will pay him accordingly.—Wide World.

A Vegetable Cameo.

Spain is the land of the onion, a fact which tempted Mr. Shaw, the author of "Spain of Today," to fall into the appended easy verse. All returned travelers are sure to appreciate it for its feeling for truth rather than its resemblance to the form of "The Ancient Mariner."

Garlic, garlic everywhere Except in what you drink.

HAVE YOU NOTICED?

THAT the man, who is always telling you how to run the government, is seldom registered?

That the man, who is always butting into your business, couldn't run his own business under any circumstances?

That the man, who is always knocking his fellow men and women, is usually trying to cover up his own sins and mistakes?

That the fellow, who is always trying to hammer Campbell, never is looking for a job or a business in some other town?

That many of those riding in automobiles haven't paid for them and probably never will?

That most of the joys of the world which in most sections of the world can hardly be bought, even at a high price, can here be had without price; namely: health, climate, scenery, fruits, fish, flowers, etc.

That the average resident of any other community would gladly move here if he could be assured of as comfortable a livelihood as you enjoy.

That times are always prosperous here when they are prosperous elsewhere in the state.—Ex.

A Heart-to-Heart Talk

A business man in Corvallis dropped in the other day and in a friendly way asked (in connection with the trade at home arguments in last week's Courier) why we could not print the envelopes as cheaply as a San Francisco house could, and he showed us the printed prices this firm sent out.

As luck would have it, on our desk lay a price list of sundry household articles that a Chicago house sends out to newspapers to offer as premiums with newspapers, and we asked him why he could not sell these articles to the Courier as cheaply as Chicago could.

And we had him.

Both concerns specialized on these particular lines.

We can get the three times a week edition of the New York World for any man who wants it for 65 cents a year, but we can't give him the Courier three times a week for this price.

Neither will the New York paper ever print a line that will help Corvallis or Benton county.

If every person in Benton county hunted out the particular bargains of the hundreds of houses that use catalogues and sent away for them, our Main street pavement would not wear out in a thousand years.

Last year Portland houses advertised to sell sugar and some other staple goods at retail at lower prices than the merchants of Corvallis could buy them. The writer took particular pains to find out HOW this concern could do it.

And he found that every pound of sugar was sold at a loss, on the reasoning that losing on sugar would make the consumers of Corvallis think their home merchants were robbing them, and when they once got their custom they would make up the profit loss on sugar with other articles the customers were not as familiar with.

So the game goes.

On the whole your home merchant or home printer isn't going to throw the harpoon into you very deep. He won't last long if he does. And on the whole your city will be more prosperous, your property worth more, your markets better and everybody more prosperous if the money is kept at home and in local circulation. Far too much coast coin goes east of the Rockies.—Corvallis Courier.

Wells In India.

The question of wells in India is complicated by the co-existence in each community of two castes—the purer Hindus and Gonds on the one hand, the weavers on the other. No weaver may draw from the well of the Hindu lest it be defiled, nor will the Hindu drink from the hands or the well of a weaver. Thus it becomes necessary either to dig two wells or to depute a certain number of the Hindu element to give water to their less exalted fellow villagers.

Glazed Eyes.

Snakes may almost be said to have glass eyes, inasmuch as their eyes never close. They are without lids, and each is covered with a transparent scale resembling glass. When the reptile casts its outer skin the eye scales come off with the rest of the transparent envelope out of which the snake slips.

This glassy eye scale is so tough that it effectually protects the true eye from the twigs, sharp grass and other obstructions which the snake encounters in its travels, yet it is transparent enough to allow the most perfect vision. Thus if the snake has not a glass eye it may, at any rate, be said to wear eyeglasses.

Singers from the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute in Alabama to Return to California and Adjacent Territory

Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, November 2, 1915.—The group of Tuskegee Institute singers who spent practically the entire winter season in Southern California and adjacent territory during the season of 1914-1915, will return to this section during the months of December, January, February and March. They come from Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, located in the heart of the Black Belt section of the South, which was founded thirty-four years ago by Booker T. Washington, who is still its active head.

The meetings to be arranged will be in the interest of the work of the school which is largely dependent for its existence upon public and private contributions. The singers are graduates and students of the school. They sing the old-fashioned plantation melodies and Negro folk songs. They will be accompanied again this year to the State by Charles Winter Wood, who will tell the story of the school and give dialect readings.

The tour last season was, in many respects, very successful, and now that the full meaning of the work of Tuskegee Institute is better understood throughout this section, it is hoped that this tour may result in making many new friends for the cause of Negro education.

There were in attendance last year 1,537 students, young men and women, and thus far this year there have been enrolled nearly 1,400 students and others are arriving daily. The institution is primarily industrial and agricultural. Forty trades and industries are taught, and the practice farm, where agriculture in all its branches is taught, consists of 1,000 acres. 195 teachers and skilled workers are employed in the teaching and training of the students, and in carrying the ideas and influence of the school into the rural districts of the South.
